BALTIMORE (AP)—Police arrested more than 100 Negro and white integrationists Sunday when they refused to leave a privately owned, segregated amusement park.

Police dogs were used to control a restless, jeering crowd of 6,000 white patrons inside the park.

"Let's kill all those black niggers," some shouted. "We don't want those niggers in here."

The arrests on trespass charges were made at Gwynn Oak Amusement Park in suburban Wood-lawn, where some 280 persons—including several nationally known clergymen—had been arrested in a massive demonstration on the Fourth of July. Their cases are still pending.

China, Russia Rest Cudgels

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet and Chinese negotiators seeking an end to the bitter dispute over who will dominate the Communist world rested Sunday with no sign they were approaching any agreement. Western diplomats disagreed on whether a Moscow-Peking split would ease cold war tensions.

Red China, meanwhile, continued its attacks on Premier Khrushchev's regime. But Foreign Minister Chen Yi told a Peking rally that Red China opposes a split and would "never do anything to grieve those near and dear to us and gladden the enemy."

Rocks Thrown At Bronx Pickets

NEW YORK (AP) — Several thousand persons, mostly teenagers, hurled rocks, eggs and tomatoes early Sunday at about 40 white and Negro pickets outside a diner in the Bronx.

The pickets said they wanted the diner chain to hire more Negroes.

At noon Sunday three pickets, with five policemen on duty, walked outside the diner. There was no disturbance.

The trouble began about 10:30 p.m. Saturday when the crowd swelled into the thousands, and lasted until shortly before 1 a.m.

Peronists Cast Blank Ballots

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—An avalanche of blank ballots began to build up Sunday night in partial returns from the Argentine presidential election. The trend testified to the power still wielded in this troubled nation by exiled dictator Juan D. Peron.

Early returns showed 53,491 blank votes, roughly 30 per cent of the total so far. If the trend holds, 3.5 million Argentines will have voted for no one in one of the most confused elections in the country's history.

Rocky Asks State Rights Action

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will ask the annual meeting of the governors conference to endorse a politically charged resolution calling for state efforts to end racial discrimination in places of public accommodation, housing, education, transportation and employment.

"Human rights and individual dignity require constant and continuing protection through law and leadership at every level of our society," Rockefeller said in the resolution made public Sunday.

U. S. Students Visit Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The 59 American students visiting Cuba despite U.S. government opposition met with Vice Prime Minister Raul Castro and other revolutionary leaders, Havana radio said Sunday.

The meeting took place at the Havana Communist daily newspaper, Hoy, the broadcast said.

Ministers Named In Profumo Probe

LONDON (AP)—Three government ministers have been named to investigate Lord Denning as key figures in rumors of sex hijinks in high places, the newspaper The People said Sunday.

Denning was appointed by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to investigate security aspects of the case of ex-War Minister John D. Profumo, who quit after admitting an affair with Christine Keeler, red-haired call girl.

The People said Denning was told compromising photographs exist of at least one minister, possibly two.

"One of the pictures was in a set of photographs produced during a recent divorce case," the newspaper said. "Some people claim that a leading minister is recognizable in the photograph."

Rail Unions Reject Plan To Avoid National Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Railroad operating unions rejected Sunday a government plan designed to head off a nationwide rail strike threatened next Thursday.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said the railroads agreed to his proposal "without reservation."

He said the five railroad operating unions answered separately but their replies added up to "no."

The unions issued a statement saying they turned down the Wirtz proposal because "we reject arbitration as a means of writing a rules agreement."

"We cannot agree to set aside a basic freedom," the unions said "whether by legislation or by 'voluntary' agreement, compulsory arbitration is the same thing."

"The secretary's plan is thinly disguised compulsory arbitration."

J.E. Wolfe, chairman of the railroads negotiating committee, issued a statement after the union's rejection of the government plan accusing them of trying to blackmail the carriers.

He called their attitude a "law-of-the-jungle approach" to collective bargaining. And he said the carriers throughout the long dispute have accepted every recommendation made by two presidential boards and Secretary Wirtz while the unions have rejected them.

Thursday Deadline

Wolfe repeated that the new work rules would go into effect at 12:01 a.m. Thursday, unless an administration sponsored bill calling for one-shot compulsory arbitration had been enacted by Congress before that deadline.

The unions have said they would strike immediately in retaliation if the job eliminations began.

Wirtz reported to newsmen after a 25-minute meeting with both sides in the dispute over railroad work rules. He had called the meeting to get their answer to the settlement plan he advanced Friday.

He met separately with the management leaders and with representatives of the five unions, then telephoned President Kennedy at Hyannis Port, Mass., to tell him of the union rejection.

Wirtz declined to comment on Kennedy's reaction. He said he will meet with the President Monday to discuss the threatened rail strike.

Wirtz said he had asked the parties to stand by and resume talks immediately to see if there is any further basis for probing.

"I don't mean to imply that I think there is," Wirtz said.

Although Wirtz would not comment on the next governmental step, President Kennedy has made clear that he will ask Congress to pass emergency legislation to prevent a walkout which the administration feels would be an intolerable blow to the nation's economy.

Such legislation presumably would call for compulsory arbitration or perhaps government seizure of the lines or a combination of both.

40,000 Jobs

The dispute centers around 40,000 firemen's jobs which the railroads say are unnecessary work assignments that cost them $600 million a year in useless wages.

Wirtz proposed last Friday that the railroads and unions resume negotiations for 20 days beginning Sunday on methods of putting into effect a presidential emergency board's recommendations that 40,000 firemen's jobs be eliminated through attrition.

If these talks failed Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds was to prescribe procedures for a final settlement.

At the same time union management boards would study the dispute and make binding recommendations at the end of two years. If they could not agree neutral members would be added to make binding recommendations.

The unions involved are: The AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, the Switchmen's Union and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and the independent Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen.

Strike Threat

The unions have threatened to strike at 12:01 Thursday if the railroads carry out their announced plans to start eliminating the 40,000 firemen's jobs at that time.

The Association of American Railroads has estimated that some 700,000 workers and 217,000 miles of railroad right of way would be affected if this happens.

The rails dispute goes back at least four years. The railroads at that time demanded the right to reduce their work force and cut labor costs by an estimated $600 million annually through elimination of what they felt were unnecessary jobs.

These jobs were required by work rules that have been the central focus of the controversy.

The unions denounced the carriers' stand, contending the rail work force is the most efficient in the nation. They said that railroad employment has been nearly halved in the past 15 years and the work rules are needed for safe and efficient operation of trains.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower appointed a 15-man presidential commission to examine the problem. It recommended last year that some 40,000 firemen should be eliminated from freight and yard trains.

The recommendation, upholding the railroad management's arguments, proposed that 13,000 low-seniority firemen be laid off immediately and the jobs of 27,000 others be eliminated gradually through attrition.

The Supreme Court also upheld the railroads' right to eliminate the jobs.

The dispute was so hot President Kennedy named an emergency board that modified the previous recommendations to propose eliminating all 40,000 jobs by attrition, as workers retired or died.

Crash Witness Saw 'Cloud Of Dust'

STROUDSBURG — A driver who witnessed the auto crash that killed four people in Minisink Hills and sent three to the hospital Friday said last night, "All of us were traveling between 30 and 35 miles per hour."

Forrest Graves of 1004 W. Main St., Stroudsburg, was one of the eye witnesses to the accident Friday on Rt. 209 near Pococubana Lodge when a tractor-trailer carrying bread struck a W. S. Peeney oil truck, swerved across the road and crushed a car driven by a Conestoga steel worker.

Graves told The Daily Record, "I was following the bread truck from just south of Bushkill to the scene of the accident. We turned left on Rt. 209 in Marshalls Creek and headed for Stroudsburg.

"As we approached the Pococubana Lodge I was about six car lengths in back of the bread truck. There I saw the truck veer to its left and then a big cloud of dust," Graves added.

He continued, "I told my wife there was an accident. I slowed down and traveled a short distance past the scene and parked on the side of the road, got out of the car and walked back. I knew there was nothing I could do for the people in the car and I feared the sight."

"I waited until the State Police came and I told them what I saw. My statement to them was simply that I was following the bread truck and that I gave the speed of my car as 30 to 35 miles per hour and that the truck could not have been going much faster at the time of the accident," Graves concluded.

Tallaging Report

James C. Sebring, driver of the W. S. Peeney oil truck, when asked if Welsh was tallaging him, said, "I'll tell you what I have told everyone else who has called me about this accident. The report is in the hands of the State Police and I have been told that the less I say about the accident the better off I'll be."

Sebring told the State Police Friday that he had slowed down to allow a car in front of him to make a turn off the road. Welsh's bread truck then hit Sebring's oil truck in the left rear and swerved across the road into the Marx car traveling the opposite direction.

Trooper Donald Kresge of the Stroudsburg barracks Pennsylvania State Police, was also asked about the tallaging report.

Trooper Kresge said, "I have no conclusive evidence at this point as to any distances between any of the vehicles. The case is still being investigated. However, if Welsh was tallaging it will come out at the hearing on Thursday."

Tallaging is a term used to describe one vehicle following another too closely.

Skill Critical

A spokesman for the hospital last night listed the condition of Michael Cesanek, 55, as critical, Elizabeth Cesanek, 8, as good, and David Michael Marx, 10 months, as fair.

The three were passengers in the fatal car driven by Edward Marx Sr., 31, of 160 Lincoln Ave., Cementon, Marx Sr. was one of the four killed in the crash.

Drew L. Welsh, driver of the bread hauling rig from Drums, Pa., was charged Friday with four counts of involuntary manslaughter before Justice of the Peace Ruth Miller in Stroud Twp.

He was freed on a $4,000 property bond to appear Thursday at 2:30 p.m. before the Stroud Twp. Justice of the Peace for a hearing.

Verdon E. Frailey of Bartonsville posted $4,000 bond to free Welsh as local agent for Nationwide Insurance Co., which insures the Spaulding Bread Co.

Manslaughter

Welsh is charged with four counts of involuntary manslaughter. Each count carries a maximum sentence of a fine not to exceed $2,000 or a jail sentence not to exceed three years or both. If he is found guilty on all counts his maximum sentence could be $8,000 fine and 12 years in jail.

Daniel G. Warner, chief deputy Monroe County coroner, said last night, "I have not yet set the date or day for a possible inquest."

Killed in addition to Marx Sr., were Mrs. Catherine Boies Cesanek, 50, of Northampton, RD 2, his mother-in-law; Edward Marx Jr., 5, his son. Mrs. Mary Ann Marx, 26, also of Cementon, his wife, died in the General Hospital of Monroe County several hours after the accident.

Buddhist-Catholic Battle 'Settled' In S. Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — President Ngo Dinh Diem declared Sunday South Viet Nam's Buddhist problem is settled. But his government barred the public from a memorial service for a Buddhist monk and secret police roughed up Western newsmen trying to cover the event.

Two cameras were smashed and one Western correspondent was wrestled to the ground and kicked by rock-throwing Vietnamese secret police in the fracas outside Chantareansay Pagoda, in North Saigon, where 1,000 Buddhist monks and nuns attended services for the Monk, Quang Duc.

Quang Duc, a 73-year-old monk, burned himself to death in public in Saigon June 1 protesting alleged discrimination against South Viet Nam's Buddhist majority by Diem's Roman Catholic dominated government.

Buddhists had sought permission to hold public services for Quang Duc, but the government turned them down. Officials apparently feared another riot might break out despite a Buddhist-government agreement resolving many Buddhist grievances.

Diem apparently referred to this accord in declaring Buddhist problems had been settled, "notwithstanding the underground intervention of international Red agents and of Communist fellow travelers, who are in collusion with Fascist ideologists disguised as Democrats."

Ninth Year

In a message to the nation in observance of the ninth anniversary of his regime, Diem charged that "agents" were "surreptitiously seeking to revive and rekindle disunity at home while arousing public opinion against us abroad."

Vietnamese secret police dressed in slacks and sport shirts have shadowed Western newsmen at most recent Buddhist demonstrations, and were out in numbers at the Chantareansay pagoda.

As a monk carrying Quang started to lead a procession out of the pagoda, uniformed police moved in and ordered the monks and nuns to leave in small groups.

Some tried to slip through but police blocked their way. When Western newsmen and photographers moved in closer, plainclothes agents scurried about them, raising their hands to block the view, pushing and shoving. Within seconds rocks began to fly.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett was wrestled to the ground and several agents jumped him, beating and kicking. Two AP cameras were broken and a CBS movie camera was dented.

Armed steel-helmeted police formed a circle to prevent others from joining in the fracas, but did not interfere in the fighting itself.

Liberals Fear Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberal Republican senators up for reelection are being increasingly chilled by the prospect that Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona might become the party's 1964 presidential nominee.

Sen. Jacob K. avits, R-N.Y., put their uneasiness into words Sunday with the observation that Goldwater's nomination might prove costly to Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., in their races next year.

Countering this, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said he had had an "overwhelmingly enthusiastic" response from all over the country to his efforts to deliver Nebraska's convention vote to Goldwater.

Curtis said in an interview he thinks there is a Goldwater tide running in the South, the Midwest and the Mountain states.

This was in line with the contentions of other Goldwater rooters that the Arizona senator could win the presidency by carrying these areas, while writing off the big states of the East and the Northeast.

In the Midwest, Sen. Roman L. Hruska, Curtis' colleague, holds the only Republican seat at stake. But the terms of incumbent Democrats are ending in North Dakota, Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio and Missouri. Oklahoma's Democratic Sen. Edmondson, an appointee, also is seeking election.

Terms Ending

In the Mountain states, Goldwater is concluding his term and the GOP seat held by Sen. Edward L. Mechem of New Mexico is at stake. There are Democratic terms ending in Utah, Nevada, Wyoming and Montana.

Javits said on a taped television-radio program he thinks liberal Republicans like Keating and Scott "will have a problem as to how they project their own views on basic questions like civil rights ... and separating those views from the views of the candidate for president" if Goldwater is nominated.

"I will say it can be done, but it isn't going to be easy and it may prove costly," he added.

Javits was asked if he thinks suburbanites who might wield the balance of political power in some states are opposed to civil rights legislation.

Javits replied that while some residents of white suburbs "have a certain uneasy feeling" about Negroes' moving in, his mail from New York City's largest suburbs shows 3-1 support for civil rights legislation.

Goldwater, who opposes the Kennedy administration's most controversial civil rights proposals, had been presented by his friends as likely to have strong support in suburban areas.

Jet Fighter Crashes Into Swimming Party

WILLOW GROVE, Pa. (AP)—A jet fighter plane, disabled as it came in for a landing Sunday, plowed into a boys' day camp crowded with children and adults on a family reunion outing.

Reports of the dead ranged from seven to nine and the injured at least 15. Seven bodies were recovered. Most of the dead and injured were adults, who with their families had rented the Green Hills day camp, which is next to the Willow Grove Naval Air Station.

Among the dead were three members of one family, Mrs. Jennie Klein, 36, of Philadelphia; her 10-year-old daughter Sandy, and her four-year-old son Harvey.

The pilot, Capt. John W. Butler, of Bolling Springs, Pa., a civilian reservist, bailed out safely.

Higher Sales Tax Cuts Liquor, Cigarette Sales

HARRISBURG (AP) — Sales of liquor, wine and cigarettes dropped sharply in the state last month—on the heels of substantial state tax increases on these items.

The State Liquor Control Board said Saturday that sales in the last two weeks of June were eight per cent lower than in June 1962. Sales for the entire month were listed as unchanged.

Cigarette wholesalers said their business is off by least eight per cent.

Some of the purchase lag apparently is due to stockpiling before the recent tax increases—two cents a package on cigarettes and 50 per cent (from 7½ to 15 per cent) on liquor.

The state sales tax also was increased, effective June 1, by one per cent — to five per cent on most items, except clothing and take-home food.

Gov. William W. Scranton said the increased taxes were needed to off-set what he described as a budget deficit inherited from the previous Democratic administration. Most of the money was earmarked for education.

State liquor store sales for the week ending May 31, soared to $7,498,178, with more than $3 million on May 31 alone. Sales for the week ending June 6 came to $6.1 million (the liquor tax went up June 7) but the following week fell to $2.8 million. They were $3.2 million the week ending June 20 (as compared to $3.5 in the same week last year). For the week ending June 27 they were a little over $4 million but continued to lag eight per cent behind 1962 figures.

Liquor store officials said July figures will determine whether the customers have cut down on their consumption or, perhaps, are buying their supply elsewhere.

The state stands to lose about $2 a fifth in markup and taxes on the business it loses.

Meredith Fights NAACP Leadership

CHICAGO (AP)—James Meredith headed back to Mississippi Sunday after expressing bitterness and disappointment over reception at the NAACP convention of his criticism of the group's policies and youth leadership.

"I'm going to get my wife out of here and go back to school," said Meredith, 39, pioneer Negro student at the University of Mississippi. He checked out of the Morrison Hotel where the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People concluded its 50th annual convention Saturday night.

Friction between Meredith and other leaders of the NAACP youth division developed after a speech Friday night in which Meredith referred to what he termed "the very low quality leadership present among our young Negroes and the childish nature of their activities."

This remark together with criticism of the proposed Negro march on Washington and his reference to those attending a youth banquet at which Meredith spoke as "burhuds," brought sharp reaction from NAACP leaders.

"Anyone of you burhuds out there could be the owner or manager of a large department store, president of a corporation, or even mayor of the city of Chicago," Meredith said in his talk. "All things are possible, if you only believe."

Meredith said later no insult was intended by use of the term and that he had only complimentary things to say about the NAACP.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, said Meredith should apologize to Negro youth for his remarks.

"Our youth have done a wonderful job of arousing public sympathy through direct demonstrations," Wilkins said. "He has no right to criticize their leadership as being low level or childish. He is no Uncle Tom. His judgement is bad, and his taste is worse."

30 Crib Deaths A Mystery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — City health officials and pathologists are trying to determine what caused the overnight deaths of 30 apparently healthy babies during the last two weeks of June.

Dr. John W. Spelman, city medical examiner, said Saturday the deaths are part of the puzzling so-called "crib deaths," a world-wide problem.

Spelman said he couldn't explain the 30 deaths. He said Philadelphia annually averages about 150 crib death reports, with the highest incidence in the cooler months. The summer months average 5, compared with 15 a week for the last two weeks in June.

During that time Philadelphia experienced temperatures in the high 90s for eight straight days.

Spelman was asked if the heat wave could have resulted in dehydration of the babies.

"It's true, more less, that the deaths coincided with the heat wave, but... we had a couple more Friday and there certainly was no heat wave," Spelman said.

Sen. Scott To Play Baseball

HARRISBURG (AP) — Three state senators are listed in the starting lineup when the House and Senate put their athletic reputations on the line Tuesday in a pageboy softball game.

The Senate pages lack the number to field a team so they turned to the senators for bipartisan help and came up with four players, an umpire and an "attending physician."

The four ballplayers are Republicans William Z. Scott, Jack E. McGregor, and Richard C. Frame and Democrat Robert P. Casey.

All but Frame are on Manager Joe Bennett's starting team: Casey at first, Scott at second and McGregor at third.

Republican Sen. John T. Van Sant, a former Allentown sports broadcaster, showed true political courage by agreeing to serve as an umpire.

Democrat George J. Sharraf, a Pittsburgh doctor, is listed as the attending physician.

4 To Take Space Test

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — For one month, four men will live inside a space station here, simulating mission and emergencies that might occur on a long space flight.

The specially-trained crew is to start the test in September in a huge tank at General Electric's Space Technology Center. Its purpose is to determine how men's minds and bodies react to extended space flight conditions, GE said.

The assignments will include rendezvousing with other space ships, docking of ferry supplies, communications, navigation, control, maintenance and surveillance and reactions to emergencies staged by test monitors outside the tank.

Housewife Gets Garbage Pickup

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For the last five years according to a group of Pittsburgh housewives, trucks have been dumping garbage and trash on both sides of their street at night.

After numerous complaints, a city truck appeared in the North Side neighborhood but left without cleaning up the refuse, the women said. On Friday they took matters into their own hands.

Armed with rakes and with the aid of their children the housewives raked a three-foot pile of tin cans, paper and garbage into the center of the street.

Traffic ground to a halt. Two police cars were summoned. The air became heated with verbal exchanges between police and the defiant women.

Later tempers cooled somewhat and the officers promised the city would clear up the rubbish. The housewives raked a path through the rubble and traffic moved again.

18 Teamsters Reinstated

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Teamsters Union general executive board has reinstated 18 members of Teamster local 107 who were expelled for trying to overthrow the leadership of international president James R. Hoffa.

The 18—placed on two years' probation each—are members of the Voice of the Teamsters, a rebel faction that twice challenged Hoffa's leadership in elections conducted by the National Labor Relations Board.

The board also advised 12 other members of the Voice who were expelled in January, 1962 that their status will be reviewed "on the basis of your general behavior with respect to the local union." Among the 12 is Charles Meyer, chairman of the Voice.

Kiwanians At International Conference

STROUDSBURG — Chester S. Miller and Ralph E. Shupp, members of the Kiwanis Club of Stroudsburg, recently returned from the 48th annual convention of Kiwanis International in Atlantic City, which was held from June 30 thru July 4.

More than 14,000 Kiwanians and their families from the United States, Canada, Mexico and the Bahamas attended the four and a half day event which held the convention sessions in Atlantic City's convention hall.

Principal speakers were Dr. Edward R. Annis, president of the American Medical Association, who reminded Kiwanians that it is the duty of every person to speak out for freedom as "freedom is everybody's business."

Other noted speakers were Dr. Noah C. Langdale, president of Georgia State College and Ward L. Quaal, executive vice president and general manager of WGN Inc., Chicago.

Highlights of the convention included an inspirational musical, "In Memoriam" on Sunday evening, Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians on Wednesday evening and "The Pageant of the Flag" presented by cadets from Pensacola, Florida, Naval Air Station, on Thursday.

Charles A. Swain of Cape May, N. J., was elected International president.

Among other elected officials a Pennsylvanian, Marshall E. Jetty of Saint Mary's was elected International trustee.

Rooney Blasts Attempts To Halt Radar Checks

BETHLEHEM — State Senator Fred B. Rooney, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 15th District and a leader of the radar highway safety program in Pennsylvania, yesterday scored the Republican attempts to kill the use of radar.

"More than 10 per cent of all those killed on the nation's highways this weekend were killed in Pennsylvania," Rooney said.

"In the tragic aftermath of this holiday, Pennsylvania leads the nation in terms of the total number dead and in rate of accidents."

"While this was happening, the Scranton Republican Administration in Harrisburg and the Republican majority in the General Assembly is doing its level best to emasculate a safety program which was—for eight years—the finest in the country."

"They have already watered it down to the point where it bears no resemblance to the effective program of the past. If the manipulators in the Administration and the Assembly have their way, now, there will be nothing left of it in the future."

"It should be perfectly clear that petty, political-minded partisans are playing Russian roulette with the safety of Pennsylvania motorists and the lives of those who choose to come here as our guests."

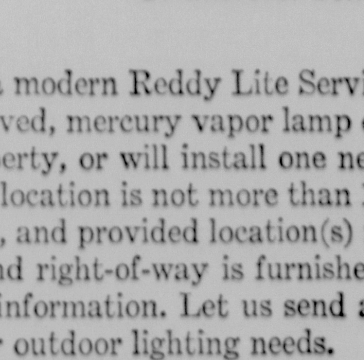

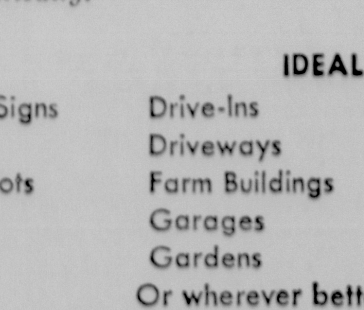

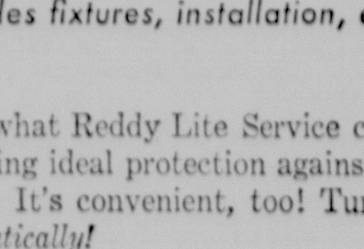

No Holiday Protection
"There were no increased patrols for the holiday, no aerial surveys and no visible evidence of accident preventive measures or law enforcement. Virtually the only contribution the Administration made to highway safety over the weekend was a radio spot announcement which served as little more than a free plug for the Governor's precious public relations 'image'."

"It should be clear today, as never before, that this slaughter of the innocents must stop."

"In my capacity as State Senator, I intend to fight with every weapon I can find against the complete destruction of Pennsylvania's highway safety program which Scranton and his advisers are now presiding over," Rooney said.

Check Forgery Trial To Begin

STROUDSBURG — Carlon O'Malley Jr., Asst. U. S. Attorney, said last night the "trial of Gerald E. Shanley of 510 Fulmer Ave., Stroudsburg, will start today, but the time of the trial is not known as of now."

Shanley will go on trial in Federal Court in Scranton on 12 counts involving National Guard Payroll checks.

Shanley, now an assistant vice president of the First-Stroudsburg National Bank, is a former captain in the National Guard and was a commanding officer of Co. A, 1st Battle Group, 109th Infantry, with headquarters in East Stroudsburg.

Shanley and two non-commissioned officers of the company were indicted by a federal grand jury on Jan. 16.

Vincent Marek Jr., of Tannersville, a former first sergeant, pleaded no contest to a 19-count indictment charging forgery, false statements and using the mails to defraud. He is awaiting sentencing.

Robert E. Schoonover, of East Stroudsburg, a former master sergeant in the company, was found guilty on three of six counts at a jury trial in March.

He was found guilty on an indictment charging unlawful uttering of a payroll check and two counts of using the mails to defraud the government. He was a sergeant in the company.

Shanley was indicted on 12 counts, charging that he forged endorsements on three U.S. Treasury checks issued to members of the company and passed the checks at Stroudsburg on Aug. 12, 1960, and that on or about the same date he submitted a false and fraudulent National Guard field training payroll to the finance and accounting office of the Army at Indian-town Gap.

Five other counts of the indictment against Shanley charge that, as part of a scheme to defraud the government, he submitted new mailing addresses for drill payments for several members of Co. A, knowing the addresses were incorrect.

Shanley will be tried before Chief Federal Judge Michael H. Sheridan. He will be represented by Edwin M. Kosik, Scranton attorney, while Asst. U. S. Atty. Carlon O'Malley Jr. will present the government's case.

The trial is expected to last about a week.

died in St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis, N. Y., 15 hours after the accident.

State Police said the men were trapped in the car from 4:30 a.m. Saturday until about 7:15 a.m., the same day, when a passing motorist discovered the accident.

Police added that the car carrying the two men failed to negotiate a sharp curve on the lonely road, ran off the left side of the highway, struck the tree and overturned.

Negro Violence

James Meredith, the Negro who integrated the University of Mississippi, was reduced to tears last week when radical Negroes at the Chicago convention of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) booed his moderate stand on the present racial crisis.

Afterwards, Meredith warned his detractors:

"If we are to take on the same characteristics of our oppressors and our enemies—intolerance, bigotry and allow no voice to speak but those that say what we want to hear—I feel that certainly our cause may well be doomed."

It is an important warning for the radical Negro groups which are black-mailing Congress with threats of more violence across the nation and a mass march on Washington in August to put pressure on Congress to pass President Kennedy's civil rights legislation.

Already, some moderate senators and representatives who favor strong civil rights legislation, including the controversial accommodations bill, are saying that Negro threats will do more harm than good.

Our representative government makes laws after all the pressures of a democratic society have been applied and put to the vote. But the Congress is not accustomed or in a humor to pass legislation under the threat of violence.

Although Negroes are rightfully impatient with the slow progress of civil rights legislation, they have no right to declare war on the Congress. As Meredith said, such tactics will doom the civil rights legislation and do more harm than good.

Getting Out The Vote

The special election July 30 for the vacant 15th district seat in the U.S. House of Representatives will probably be won by the party which is best organized and most successful in getting its own faithful followers to the polls.

So far the campaign oratory and barrage of statements and counter-statements has not ignited general enthusiasm or keen voter interest.

With only one office at stake, the general voting public and party workers themselves are too likely to think they do not have an important decision to make. But this is a big election for both parties and for all residents of the 15th Congressional district.

Civil Rights legislation, tax cuts, the fate of foreign aid and the federal budget are vital national issues our representative will have to vote on.

Issues of tremendous importance to this district must be decided in this Congress also. Besides the appropriation of $250,000 for Tocks Island Dam planning, the equally important legislation establishing the National Recreation Area around the dam must be passed.

Western Madhouse

Washington — It has become almost required folklore to describe Washington as a madhouse, and anyone who adds that it is the only madhouse in the world run by the inmates is regarded in certain feeble-minded circles as not only foolish but funny. But I have just rediscovered that the nation's capital is a placid retreat compared with some of the places I visited out West.

For instance, I have never beheld almost the entire political hierarchy of the District of Columbia do a tumbling act on a speakers' dais. Yet it happened in New Mexico.

The setting was billed as a "Small Business Lunch," but the bit of business staged by New Mexico's leaders brought large laughs.

The luncheon was held in Albuquerque. Seated at the speakers' table were Gov. Jack Campbell, Senator Clinton P. Anderson, Rep. Thomas G. Morris, Mayor Archie Westfall of Albuquerque, and Charles Lauer, president of the New Mexico Title Co.

The platform was made up of sections. One of the sections passed, letting one leg of Gov. Campbell's chair sag. The Governor fell against Senator Anderson, dislodging a leg of the Senator's chair.

Senator Anderson lurched sideways, spilling Rep. Morris, whose chair found another crevasse in the platform. This precipitated Morris' against Mayor Westfall, who knelt over Senator Lauer. It was a chain reaction pitfall we would never countenance on a speakers' platform here.

If any young lady displayed herself on our stages with nothing on above the waist, she would at least be chided for shamelessness in forgetting the top piece. But in Las Vegas she would be considered only in the mode.

I sat goggle-eyed at the Stardust, the Flamingo, Sands, and Desert Inn, but the gentlemen who habituate these cultural preserves manifested no comparable restraint. The existence of they lead in Las Vegas palpably is not as decorous as ours in Washington.

At the Stardust I couldn't tear my eyes from the stage, but my old friend, Tommy McDonnell, who is supposed to oversee the show, kept his back to it. Not only that, but he wouldn't discuss the performance. He insisted upon telling me of an exchange he had had with former President Harry S. Truman.

"I had an Iron Cross I took off a dead German in the first World War," recounted Mr. McDonnell. "I gave it to Mr. Truman for his library in Independence, but I was embarrassed about it being so commonplace a souvenir. I told Mr. Truman, 'I bet you picked up a lot of souvenirs like this yourself.'"

"He looked at me and said, 'Listen, Tommy, I was in the artillery. I never got close enough to a dead German to pick a souvenir off him.'"

Republican chairman sometimes quit in the District of Columbia, and their feminine co-chairmen may resign with them. Our GO Pleadings may also offer the stock excuse that they're withdrawing for personal reasons. But they keep hereofers out of it.

In Wyoming, however, Laramie County GOP Chairman William H. Chamberlain and Vice Chairman Esther Shafer quit for "personal reasons." Mr. Chamberlain then offered the amplification that he had purchased a dozen Hereford heifers and bulls in the breed's place of origin, Herefordshire, England, and desired to give them the benefit of his attention, adding cryptically:

"We think the English Herefords have stronger rear quarters than ours, and plan to cross them with our American Herefords which have stronger heads and shoulders."

This left Laramie County palpating with curiosity because it didn't seem to explain why Mrs. Shafer had resigned too. We don't tolerate such madhouse goings-on in Washington. It's very restful to be back.

Harrisburg—It is becoming increasingly clear that unless civic groups and organized sportsmen throughout the state move with speed and dispatch, strip mine backfill legislation is a dead duck for the current session.

With little more than three weeks to go if Administration legislative leaders are to meet their end-of-July adjournment date, it should be obvious to even the most naive that time now has virtually run out.

Top priority measures the Administration really wants acted upon from this point on will take precedence for the remainder of the session—and while strip mine backfill legislation is one of those politically expedient "advocated" measures on the part of the Administration, it is not one to be pushed to the hilt.

It's too controversial; it has been over the years—and always will be.

Bennett Cerf

Try and Stop Me

Bob Burns loved telling stories about an uncle and aunt who picked on each other continuously for forty years. Uncle was an old gadabout; Aunt was a homebody. Uncle had one particularly hectic week; on Monday night he went to a lodge meeting; Tuesday night to a Salvation Army rally; Wednesday night to a church meeting; Thursday night to a YMCA lecture. On Friday night, his wife saw him reach for his celluloid collar and demanded tartly, "Where you headed this evening, playboy?"

Newly elected public officials should bear in mind Maxwell Droke's story about the customer in a pet shop who loved with buying a parrot on display. The bird was absolutely quiet for several moments, and the customer finally asked a sales clerk, "Does this parrot ever talk?" "Indeed he does, ma'am," the clerk assured her, "but he doesn't wish to be quoted."

A lad in California, just graduated from high school, obtained a job in a new electronics plant, but quit at the end of a fortnight. "The hours and wages were fine," he admitted, "but I just didn't like the work. I'm sorry now I learned the business."

In his amusing autobiography, "What Time's The Next Swan?" Walter Slezak tells how his father, the famous opera star, Leo Slezak, was put on a strict diet when his weight became alarming. For a week he howled that he was being starved, then suddenly began accepting his meager fare with amazing serenity. His dog betrayed him by taking a stand at Slezak's desk, holding a rigid point, and barking like mad. Mrs. Slezak investigated and found inside the desk a two-foot-long Hungarian salami.

A wife, to her intense dismay, came down with a virus attack on the very day the town's biggest department store opened its mammoth clearance sale. Tearfully she persuaded her very reluctant husband to go in her place, and purchased a few items she had marked in the store's newspaper ad. "If you have trouble fighting your way to the counter," she reminded her husband at the last moment, "ACT LIKE A LADY!"

The Pennsylvania Story

Strip Mining Legislation

In a showdown such measures, unless there is adequate and insistent zest generated for the legislation, usually wind up in the dead corner—no action taken one way or the other.

Civic groups and allied interests in this session have taken a greater hand than ever before in trying to force through strip mine backfill legislation—but the lobby of the stripping interests they must oppose is heavy, hard-fisted and loaded financially.

The lay groups fighting for the legislation may not fully realize it but they have an ally in organized sportsmen throughout the state more influential than many realize.

Curiously, both are fighting for the same end result—but with different motivating forces. Civic groups look to the ravaging of the land as an economic and aesthetic disaster, a danger and strong detriment to the area.

Sportsmen on the other hand, while having some of these factors in mind secondarily, look to the strip ravaging process as a constant threat to conservation and the goals of sport and recreation sportsmen constantly seek.

For either group to achieve its goals, they must rely in the end on the goals of the other!

Why the two forces have not merged efforts up to this point in this session is somewhat of a mystery to many on Capitol Hill.

Sportsmen have a most active and influential "lobby" on Capitol Hill—and their influence is being felt more and more with each passing year. Lawmakers have learned—many to their sorrow—that you don't write off the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs.

You used to be able to do it; today the smart legislative pros just don't think about the possibility.

Perhaps one of the most significant indications of the growing strength of the PFSC was noted in last year's legislative elections where hunting-mad federation leaders gazed up on half a dozen lawmakers who had opposed their strip mine backfill efforts—and knocked them completely out of the legislative box!

For example, veteran Representative Hiram G. Andrews, with more than a score of years of service in the House of Representatives under his belt (including Speakership of the House) was one of those knocked off last year by sportsmen who were after his scalp—Andrews himself conceding the sportsmen's opposition may have been "the deciding factor" in his defeat.

The Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Club wants action on the strip mine backfill from this session. If they don't get it or the legislation goes down to defeat, they'll be on the war-path again in the legislative showdown next year.

In any event, the legislation isn't moving at all at the present time.

Poet's Corner

THE SOUL (SOLE) OF A MAN

This poem is dedicated to Dr. Hans-Helmut Brehm and his staff, or their untiring efforts and devotion to the recent Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine campaign, in Monroe County.

Where can the soul of a man be found?

He is often seen with his feet on the ground,

Wading in fresh green sod; Or standing beside a bed of pain,

Stooping to give relief; Ah, not so much from the point of gain,

As for reverence and belief — And a deep concern for all mankind,

"If his body is weary and worn,

May his Spirit cause all the lame and blind

To praise the day he was born!"

Veteran's Guide

Q—A friend of mine—no relative—died without funds or family recently. Due to our long association, I arranged a funeral and picked up the tab. The deceased had served in the army from 1931 to 1935. Will the VA pay a burial allowance in this case?

A—Not unless the deceased had been in receipt of service-connected compensation at the time of death or had been discharged or retired for disability incurred in the line of duty. Neither service-connected nor disability discharge would be necessary had the deceased been a wartime or Korean Conflict veteran.

Q—What is the procedure for getting a veteran into a VA hospital in a medical emergency?

A—Patients requiring emergency medical treatment may be taken directly to the nearest VA hospital, but if possible the veteran or someone acting for him should communicate with the VA by telephone or telegraph beforehand.

Q—I am planning to take advantage of GI Bill vocational rehabilitation training. Is there some new regulation about disabled Korean Conflict veterans' eligibility?

A—Part of a law passed by the last Congress eliminated the general deadline for vocational rehabilitation for disabled Korean Conflict veterans. The veteran who falls under this classification now has nine years after his discharge to complete his training. Prior to this the deadline for completion of such training was January 31, 1964.

Q—I'm going to college under the War Orphans Educational program administered by VA. I want to get married. Can I continue with my schooling?

A—Yes. Marriage does not affect eligibility.

Washington — Dr. Eugene Ghiron Fubini, who admits being a dues-paying member of a Fascist organization while a university student in Italy, is the new Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research & Engineering — one of the most security-sensitive jobs in the Pentagon.

In this position, the 50-year-old Italian-born scientist has three supremely important functions:

(1) He is the civilian boss of the super-secret National Security Agency which operates the government's highly classified communications - intelligence systems; (2) he has a key role in the so-called "permissive link" that controls the firing of nuclear weapons from the President down to officers in actual possession of these catastrophic warheads; (3) he directs the operation and development of the "hot line" between Washington and Moscow.

The Allen-Scott Report

These unpublicized details of Dr. Fubini's new Defense authority and equally important facts about his background were brought to light during a closed-door meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee that considered his appointment by President Kennedy.

By a 4 to 1 vote, the committee later approved Fubini's selection. The Senate has yet to act on it.

The dissenting ballot was cast by Senator Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., whose questioning largely uncovered the extraordinary story of this new top Defense official who came to the U.S. in 1939 as a well-heeled refugee from Mussolini-ruled Italy and in a few years attained the highest security ratings in the U.S.

Under Thurmond's grilling Fubini disclosed:

That he and other members of his family brought $400,000 with them when they fled Fascist Italy for "racial and political reasons," although he admitted Jews were not then being persecuted; that although listed as an "enemy alien," he was given clearance during World War II to inspect Britain's most secret plants and projects; and during 1942-45, while a research associate at Harvard's Radio Laboratory, he was a "scientific consultant and technical observer" for U.S. armed forces in Europe.

Fascinating Details — Dr. Fubini, who studied under the late Enrico Fermi, noted Italian-born scientist who played a major role in the development of the first U.S. atomic weapons, is a friend of Adam Yarmolinsky, controversial special assistant to Defense Secretary McNamara.

Yarmolinsky is quietly reorganizing the Pentagon's complex security system.

As Assistant Secretary for Research & Engineering, Dr. Fubini will pass on security cases involving the highly secret National Security Agency. Also in his province will be information obtained by the Samos and Ferret satellites orbiting Russia, Red China and other strategic areas.

Senator Thurmond was particularly interested in Fubini's Fascist connections.

"While you were attending the Technical Institute at Turin," asked Thurmond, "were you associated with any Fascist student movements?"

"Yes, sir," replied Fubini. "The student movement was almost a compulsory thing, and I paid dues to the so-called GUF, the university group of fascist students."

"Describe the circumstances under which you left Italy," said Thurmond.

"I left Italy both for racial and for political reasons," explained Fubini. "My family decided they couldn't stand it and we determined to leave."

"Was there any persecution of Jews under Mussolini while you were in Italy?" asked Thurmond.

"No, sir," said Fubini.

"Tell us how much money you brought with you," said Thurmond.

"My best guess is," replied Fubini, "that the total amount owned by my family was in the magnitude of let's say $400,000."

"Did you bring that amount with you?" continued Thurmond.

"It was in bank accounts in Italy and America," explained Fubini.

"How much did you bring in?"

"Let's say something like $4,000 or $5,000," said Fubini.

"Did you have as much as $40,000," asked Thurmond.

"I don't think so," replied Fubini.

Senator Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, decorated arm-amputee combat veteran, questioned Fubini about his activities during World War II:

"What were the circumstances of your joining our armed services during the war?" asked Inouye.

"I was a very peculiar individual," replied Fubini. "I didn't join the American services. I was unique. I was in an American uniform with no passport, and working for the Army, Navy and Air Force. I had the highest clearances from the British government, and I remember a very interesting story.

"A man who got hold of Fermi called me one day and said, 'I would like to meet you,' I said, 'Fine,' so he brought me to another officer in Grosvenor Square. That officer handed me a little red tag and I looked at it and saw that it was a pass to TERE, the technical research establishment where the highest security work was going on in England.

"I put the tag in my pocket and said, 'Thank you very much.' He took my arm and said, 'Wait a minute, will you please look at it?' I looked at it and he asked me who I had signed it. I said, 'Sir Stafford Cripps.' He then told me, 'You are the only person in the UK who has this clearance, and you have been looked over by the British cabinet.'

"So you see, Senator, I am a very peculiar individual. Everybody knew about me because I was an enemy alien, and yet I was in an American uniform and had an AGO card. That is the reason I was able to work for the Army, Navy and Air Force. I flew on missions over enemy territory because I felt it had to be done in order to properly map the defenses of the Mediterranean."

Speaking Of Your Health:

Cancer Research

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

It is a source of gratification to report the vast researches that are in constant progress all over the world in an effort to find an answer to cancer.

Chemists, bacteriologists, virologists, physicists, physiologists, doctors and surgeons are representative of only a few of the sciences involved in the study of the causes and the cure of cancer. Their coordinated efforts inevitably must lead to the attainment of their objective.

Every new idea adds another valuable piece towards the completion of the intricate scientific jigsaw puzzle of this disease.

One such important contribution was recently reported.

Vital Information

Scientists were actually able to watch and photograph the formation of cancer cells through small plastic windows painlessly inserted into the ears of rabbits. Vital information evolved from this experiment that shows how cancer cells attach themselves to the inner wall of blood vessels.

This immediately opens avenues of investigation that will show how cancer cells extend from one area of the body to a distant part of the body. Already this wonderful study has stimulated other scientists to begin work in the preparation of an enzyme that will dissolve cancer cells before any permanently attach themselves to such distant blood vessels.

Scientific progress is planned and methodically calculated to eventually bring to mankind the cure for cancer.

We Learn From Herdsmen

A large group of herdsmen in far-off Somaliland was reported to have little or no evidence of diseases of the heart and blood vessels. Scientists under the auspices of the World Health Organization immediately pursued this lead in an effort to uncover the reasons for this unusual record.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard that some women behave rather peculiarly when they reach the age of 48 or 50, but I think my sister-in-law is abusing the privilege. She wears muu muu on the street with large colored kerchiefs tied around her head like a fortune teller. She loads on the make-up and junk jewelry and she's off in anklets and high-heeled shoes. She thinks she's gorgeous. She spent $12 last week just riding the buses so she could talk to the drivers. Meanwhile, she eats tranquilizers like popcorn. I'm worried.

OHIO

DEAR OHIO: Your sister-in-law is obviously in need of professional help, which is your brother's problem. Don't wait until the police give the poor woman a free ride home before you urge her husband to get her to a doctor.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and have been married for five months. My husband and I both work. We leave together in the morning and drive home together. When Joe gets home he lies down on the couch and reads the whole newspaper while I prepare supper. After supper he goes back on the couch and watches television while I clean up the kitchen. When that's done, I'm so tired I go into the bedroom, fall on my face and go to sleep. Then he has the NERVE to say that what little time we have together I spend sleeping. What should I do?

TITRED

DEAR TITRED: No bride of five months builds down a full-time job in addition to doing her

The diet of the herdsmen seemed to be the obvious starting place. It was found that their diet consisted chiefly of large quantities of camel's milk.

Chemical Content

But when the chemical content of camel's milk was analyzed, it was found to contain twice as much fat as cow's milk. This was particularly surprising in the light of the present-day concept of the relationship between high fat intake and diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

A team of psychologists then began an investigation of the personality traits of the Somali herdsmen. The scientists concluded that freedom from emotional stress among the herdsmen was an important factor in the absence of chronic diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

Lack Of Tensions

Free of the tensions and pressures of our complex society, these herdsmen are able to reap the benefits of their placid, uncomplicated existence by the enjoyment of good health.

Such studies indicate the vast distribution of world-wide scientific interest in every facet of the cause and cure of disease.

A Reminder

Although it is unrealistic to suggest that the lives of most of us can be as undisturbed and as free of tension as the life of a herdsmen, nevertheless the story of these herdsmen should serve to remind us that much of our emotional stress can be minimized, or even avoided, when we recognize how important most of our day-to-day problems really are.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Dear Abby

She's Colorful -- But III!

own housework because she wants the exercise. Since you are helping to BUY the groceries, tell Joe to get off the couch and help you prepare the meal. That way you'll have YOUR work and double his pleasure.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of mine dumbfounded me this morning when she told me she had picked my vegetables while I was on vacation so my plants wouldn't die. She expected some gratitude if I can judge a voice. Abby, I couldn't thank her, because I had agreed with a friend to pick those vegetables in exchange for watering my plants! Before going on a trip next time, should I set up a sign, or canvass the neighborhood and explain the arrangement?

VACATIONER

DEAR VACATIONER: It appears that only ONE of your neighbors needs to have the "arrangement explained". So next time, explain it.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos that letter in your column from the woman who drank goat's milk and had four babies: Small wonder. Isn't goats' milk for kids?

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Beach hats are becoming more and more unusual each year, have you noticed?—and the prices seem to run just about the same, which is pleasantly surprising. This year, for instance, we have straws shaped like fedoras, topped by an array of artificial fruit and vegetables and glasses apparently filled with liquid. The liquid swishes about threateningly inside of the plastic container until one expects to see it slosh over the side at any moment. It cannot, of course, but it's certainly a conversation piece while it's whipping around!

Once again too, we have the straws with attached braids that give a saucy appearance to girls of all ages. Saucy???? Well, yes, that is the correct word for a specific age group, but for another age group the word might more correctly be "ludicrous." Anyway, they're fun.

For the conservative girls there are straws with high, tapered crowns, and brims rimmed in shredded straw or fringe. And then there are conventional styles that have attached neck scarves which are optional. Without the scarf, these are very much like any other attractive, large, grosgrain-banded summer straw.

Whichever style you select, and we see them all along Main street in the Summer, a hat of this type is really wise. Sunlight in large doses can be very harmful to the skin, to the eyes, to the hair, and to the disposition.

I notice in the releases that come to my desk from various cosmetic houses, almost all the experts advise women to wear a protective lip pomade under their lipstick when they are sunning, and to protect the sensitive area around the eyes with generous applications of eye cream each night. Dark glasses are wonderful too to relieve eye strain, and we sell them in our Wyckoff stationery department.

It goes without saying that women can hardly live through a summer without having a big bag to tote all the extras they must keep at hand for beauty care. Some of these bags are expensive... but other are not, and there is no need for a woman to go without one, simply because she is on a tight budget. We have tote bags at several points in our store... the Handbag Department inside the front door and the Notions Department inside the backdoor. Also we have a large collection of baskets, many of which are suitable for use as handbags and can be prettily decorated according to the whimsies and tastes of the individual. These can be fun!

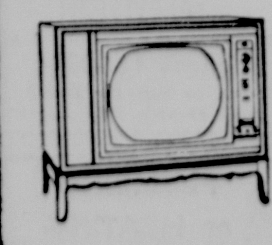

As for toting things, I just discovered something new in our notions department: a feather-weight cosmetic bag of red plastic, rectangular in shape with center handle, that zippers at the top on three sides. It opens wide, revealing a large mirror, and compartments containing plastic bottles to hold perfumes and lotions, soap dish, and plastic jars for creams. There is also room to pack a few extra items such as lingerie and hosiery; maybe even a nightie, if it's gossamer sheer. At any rate, this is an attractive, practical traveling companion for 6.00 plus tax.

My thanks to Tobyhanna Depot for the very gracious article about our Wyckoff Shopper column in the recent issue of its informative newspaper. I've read each copy religiously each time one reached by desk, but never expected to find mention of myself. I probably have Clyde Burke to thank for it, and I do thank him and all others responsible, most sincerely.

R. C. Cramer Lumber Yard Features Pruden Products

DO YOU NEED a factory workshop, a warehouse, a machine shed, shelter space, a loading barn or any one of a hundred types of enclosures? You can solve your needs at a cost less than you expect to pay with a unique new building developed and engineered by the Pruden Products Co. sold exclusively by the R. C. Cramer Lumber Co.

Used to construct Pocono Ice-A-Rama, the Pocono's first indoor ice skating rink in Avalonlink, Pruden Steel Frames not only allow quick and true erection, but allow for post free interiors which is ideal in an Indoor Skating Rink.

Why settle for anything less — when you can afford the finest steel construction for your buildings? Pruden Framed Buildings will stand erect for years to come, and the rigid clear span construction gives you complete freedom of wall or storage arrangement inside the building. You bet, it's Pruden to use a Pruden Framed Building.

And there's even more than economy and fast, easy construction in the Pruden story.

There's distribution, too, that details into the Pruden system of accelerated building.

Reputable lumber dealers throughout the nation are the local outlets. This makes the frames readily available — and, in most cases, centralizes locally the source for all materials required.

You do business in your own community — with people you know. The versatility of the Pruden "Clear Span" steel frame method is amazing. Builders of warehouses, office buildings, manufacturing plants, schools, fair buildings, meeting halls, churches, barns, garages, sheds and many, many others report faster construction — at costs far below their original estimates.

Pruden Steel Frames come in standard widths of 30, 40, 50 and 60 feet. Other sizes are available on special order. The "Clear Span" principle affords complete freedom of floor arrangement. Cross ties as well as posts are eliminated to provide clean, unobstructed interiors from wall to wall from floor to roof.

Use any materials inside and outside! Pruden Steel Framing permits the use of any materials of your choice to finish the building inside and outside. This unique method of combining all building materials each to its best advantage makes for extra economy and more flexible architectural treatment.

On The House

FROM various sources comes this bit of information of interest to the home owner.

A new method of removing multiple coats of paint from walls and ceilings has been developed by the Public Housing Administration and the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. It calls for applying a liberal coat of water-rinsable paint-remover and then holding the steam pan from a wallpaper steamer on the particular area for two or three minutes. This is said to soften the several coats of paint sufficiently so that they can be taken off with a paint scraper or putty knife. The surface must be thoroughly washed with a damp rag after the paint has been removed. When the area is thoroughly dry, the new paint can be applied.

More than three acres of the new fabric-cut into one-by-two-inch samples — has been used to "swatch" one page of the catalog. All the swatches were applied by hand, and the project required special paper, coating and adhesive as well as adjustments in the bindery operation.

Speaking of color, that long-heralded breakthrough for color television is finally here. Color television sets are making their first appearance in Sears general catalog, long considered a barometer of the

New Sears Catalog Being Distributed

FEATURING a high fashion cover with a photograph of one of the nation's leading models, the 1963 fall and winter edition of Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s general catalog arrived here today.

First copies of the new catalog now are being distributed to hundreds of homes in this area, and within six weeks it will reach a record 10 million families across the nation.

The Cover Girl photograph of Angela Howard highlights the largest selection of fashions ever presented in Sears catalog.

Sears fashion board says every important fall fashion is represented in the opening pages of the book. This section includes new creations by Mme. Claude Riviere, Parisian couturier, and by Mary Lewis, noted American designer.

Prominent among the new fashions are The Sporting Look, in camel hair, leather and tweed; The Pale Look, especially appealing in mohair; new styles in knits, including a full-length knit coat; more sleeves, in full or three-quarter length and cuffed or banded; and after-five dresses of rayon velvet.

The men's apparel section includes a group of coordinated men's fashions, and introduces a new line of men's wash and wear casual slacks and jackets. This line, made of Dacron polyester and combed cotton gabardine, is highlighted by the first use of "swatching" in the big catalog in the past quarter century.

Here's the Answer

By Andy Lang
QUESTION: I have been reading for years about the effects of colors on the size of rooms and the moods of people, but never paid much attention to them. Now I am ready to do an extensive painting job and would like some help on the use of color.
ANSWER: On the fundamental side: light colors reflect more light and tend to make things appear larger than they really are. Dark colors absorb light and thus make objects appear smaller and heavier. To make a small room seem larger, therefore, paint the walls a light, cool color such as pale blue, lilac or a light aqua. Paint the walls a deep shade of one of the stimulating colors, such as coral, if you want a large room to have a sense of intimacy.
A long, narrow room can be made to look larger by painting the side walls a light cool color, such as blue-gray, and the narrow walls a deep warm shade, such as dark rose. Unattractive features in a room can be minimized by painting them the same color as their background. A gray radiator, for instance, will be inconspicuous if the walls of the room also are gray.
As for the mood idea, it is generally believed that blues, blue-pale blue, lilac or a light aqua. Paint the walls a deep shade of

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Time may not seem on your side today, but that is greatly on how you look at it. Offset irritation and slack periods with sustained effort. Will power. Add far-sighted humor.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — More than one indication says to take care in regular and sundry activities, not to out-manoeuvre yourself or under-play an opportune moment for progress. Give a good offer a good try.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — What pleases some, does not satisfy others. Do what you know is needed (accepting rightful authority, grasping urgent measures beneficial to all). And get started on time — with big hopes.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Out front again are tedious but necessary tasks, revising an outmoded schedule or method, pulling up from any form of rigidity, unyielding manner. Rewards to the consistent, just ahead.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Convince better by tactful approach; receive new ideas eagerly; your mind awaits improvement. If you envision future possibilities, invent, devise to bring about their amended results.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Open day with thoughtful persuasion, procure through reliable means, and get your talents motivated on a foundation of temperance, effective energy and regard for everyone's needs. This is a power day.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Livid favors! Power! State objectives clearly and do not be side-tracked. Use your own judgment, please others, execute, and what comes out of logic-bound conference tables.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Employ excess energies laughably, often they become the forerunners of the success your regular schedule meant to achieve, a few flaws, "a little in the ointment." You can manage.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Your talents again in convincing propitious aspect, alertness, confidence, brightness, abundant resources, instructive, agriculture, invention, clever devices. Refreshed.

December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn) — Curtail expenditures, they fit within budget, new phases that ask backing, charity, and the ever-widening outlay. Simplicity still out front.

January 24 to February 23 (Aquarius) — Your talents again in convincing propitious aspect, alertness, confidence, brightness, abundant resources, instructive, agriculture, invention, clever devices. Refreshed.

February 24 to March 23 (Pisces) — Not all easy to extricate self from certain matters, plans, but the is both important and will display some dormant talents. Treat obstacles, real or imagined, as robust means to a happy end.

March 24 to April 23 (Aries) — Intense about loved ones, your own work. Come out of your shell more often, view things from a more objective standpoint, your instinct and evaluative powers are capable of bigger jobs than they get, locked up in personal problems. Chivalry, religious leadership, dynamic humanitarianism, outstanding. Children, animals come to you, you enjoy them. You talk to anyone on any level. The know in Cancer something with his subjects, the lowliest worker is a king in his own right, stands up for all. Take care not to penetrate too deeply another's privacy (though you only mean to aid, not "run the show"). Get sufficient sleep, eat sensibly, not worrying, using your intelligent head. Don't dream up a problem. They CAN be brought about with constant fretting. You are clear about habits, have good taste in clothes, normally like wholesome pastimes. May oppose a friend, cause estrangements you do not mean. Simple enough to bridge your overwhelming charm and curb ill-exercises. Talk matters over with loved ones, then laugh, and harmony good will. The legislation included bills to amend the liquor code to authorize sale of malt or brewed beverages by retail dispensers until 2 a.m.; delete the requirement of citizenship in the municipality for one member of the board of a municipal authority — authorizing appointment of a non-resident if they maintain business in the municipality or pay taxes thereon.

Also bills to authorize local authorities to enact ordinances, rules, and regulations granting right of way to funeral processions or parades; amend the borough code to further regulate property assessment for sanitary sewer construction and authorize boroughs to charge tapping fees.

Also to increase penalties and restrictions on distribution of obscene comic books and magazines; make it illegal for minors to attempt to purchase, consume, possess, or transport alcohol, liquor, malt or brewed beverages and providing penalties; and to amend the constitution to cover Project 70 authorizing issuance of bonds for the recreation area.

Sen. Scott voted yes on all major Senate legislation, which was all passed, and included bills to reorganize school districts, replacing Act 561; repeal an act prescribing conditions under which vaults or crypts may be constructed and maintained, and to permit savings banks to act as managing agents to receive funds or other property and to manage all parts of such funds in a collective investment fund.

THE bald eagle finally received protection in all states in 1940.

Bartlett Backs State, Local Level Aid For Education

BETHLEHEM — Robert G. Bartlett, GOP candidate for the 15th Congressional House seat in Washington, said yesterday that "I feel that aid to education should be handled at the state and local levels."

"As far as the bus transportation question goes," Bartlett said, "I commented recently on a statement by the state attorney general that Pennsylvania has nothing in its constitution to bar the use of public funds from transporting children to private schools."

"This is different from teaching, however. I think that each state should decide whether it will support transportation for children that attend private schools."

Hits Extremists

Friday Bartlett deplored political extremists as "divisive forces at a time when the nation needs unity, serving only to embarrass the more dedicated and sensible members of both political parties."

Bartlett told a group at the W. Parke Musselman home in Bethlehem that "the smear artists of the far left and the fright peddlers of the far right have proven themselves to be a detriment to the decent people claiming membership in both the Republican and Democratic parties."

"Those who espouse the theories of the far left, such as the ADA," Bartlett continued, "are super-sensitive to criticism and quickly scream 'Fascist' when any citizen has the temerity to question the wisdom of their platform. This platform," he explained, "has in it such planks as nationalization of all major industry, admission of Red China to UN membership, appeasement of Castro, complete disarmament by the United States in the hope the Communists will do likewise, and abolition of loyalty oaths and the House Committee on Un-American Activities."

The GOP candidate pointed out that "Their counterparts on the far right are just as dangerous in their own way, mouthing completely nonsensical claims to the effect that former President Eisenhower is a Communist agent, that the Army is training an army of cannibals in Georgia under the guise of 'Operation Water Moccasin' so that they (The Cannibals) can help the UN take over this nation, and that thousands of Chinese Communist troops are massed along the Baja California (Mexico) border ready to invade this country at a moment's notice." Referring to the latter claim he added "Anybody who has ever been in Baja California realizes that it is virtually impossible to conceal even one Chinese there, let alone thousands of them."

"Fortunately," he concluded, "the great bulk of the people of both parties refuse to believe the nonsense spread by the two lunatic fringes and base their judgment of issues and candidates on more sensible matters."

Bushkill Topples Lakers

West End, S-burg Win PMBL Battles

FRONT-RUNNING West End came from behind to score five runs in the eighth inning yesterday and take a 10-6 contest from the eighth inning yesterday. The victory kept the Gilbert nine one game ahead of second-place Stroudsburg which captured a thrilling 4-2 battle against Bowmanstown.

In the other Pocono Mountain Baseball League fray, Bushkill took the measure of Saylorburg

Reeders, the last team to trip West End, scored six of their runs in the fourth inning as they chased John Churetta from the mound and took a 6-1 lead. But Denny Lakatosh came on to put out the fire and then blanked the Reeders club the rest of the way.

West End, meanwhile, came back with a run in the fifth, two more in the sixth to cut the margin to 6-4, and then iced the game with their big burst in the eighth. Lakatosh also homered for the winners in the ninth.

Coach Dick Miller's S-burg A's also experienced a difficult time against Bowmanstown in a well-pitched game. The A's poured across three markers in the eighth to wipe out a 2-1 Bowmanstown lead. The losers scored both their runs in the sixth.

Doug Price went the rout for the Stroudsburg club, striking out seven and walking only one while yielding eight hits. In four of the innings, he set the side down in order.

Price led off the eighth round with a walk and after Glen Bisbing hit into a force, Charlie E. den smacked Bob Bowman's first pitch through the middle, sending Bisbing to third. Fish scored Bisbing on a fielder's choice to tie the score.

Hartley Paffenroth beat out a bunt to load the bases and Jack Sommers followed with a walk for what turned out to be the deciding run. Bob Hallett's long fly to left scored Fish.

Bushkill strengthened its grip on third place and went over the .500 mark for the season at 7-6 by handing the Saylorburg Lakers a 5-1 thumping behind the six-hit hurling of Don Vesco.

George Bromer got things rolling right off the bat for the winners with a three-run circuit smash in the first inning while the Lakers reiterated for a tally in the bottom of the first to score their only run of the game.

The winners added another pair of runs in the fourth to steal the verdict. Jerry Bond went the distance for Saylorburg.

Berra's Double Wins 2nd

Yankees Divide With Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Yogi Berra doubled home the winning run in the 10th inning for a 7-4 New York victory in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday, after Cleveland had blasted three home runs in an 11-3 first game triumph.

The Indians rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth to tie the score and nearly gave Early Wynn, working in relief, his 300th victory. Tito Francona ended the rally by taking a third strike with the winning run on second.

Berra doubled off reliever Ted Abernathy, who had walked Tom Tresh and given a single to Joe Pepitone. Two runs followed on Mike de la Hoz' throwing error.

Whitey Ford nailed down the Yankees victory in relief striking out two in the 10th.

Home runs by Max Alvis, Al Laplow and Joe Azcue were the big blows in the Cleveland's 11-run attack in the opener.

Jack Kralick, 9-6, breezed to his second triumph against the Yankees. He shut them out on two hits five weeks ago.

Tigers, A's Split; Mar Lary's Return

DETROIT (AP) — Kansas City broke out for seven runs in the seventh inning, marring Frank Lary's return to the big leagues and defeating the Detroit Tigers 8-7 in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday.

Jim Bunning, helped by a sparkling defense, pitched the Tigers to their sixth straight victory, 5-1 in the opener.

Dodgers Top Reds Twice; 4-0, 3-1

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sandy Koufax pitched his eighth shutout of the season in the first game and Doug Camilli hit a decisive two-run homer in the second as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati 4-0 and 3-1 Sunday before 53,866.

In nine starts at home this season, Koufax has pitched a half dozen shutouts, including a no-hitter against the San Francisco Giants. He hasn't lost at Dodger Stadium in more than a year.

The Dodgers took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the opener on a bases-loaded single by Ken McMullen. Wally Moon drove in the other two Dodgers runs with a double in the seventh.

Bob Purkey took the loss, his fifth in eight decisions.

The Reds got only one runner to second base.

In the second game, the Dodgers scored all their runs in the fourth inning. A single by McMullen brought in the first one, and Camilli's homer—his first of the year—produced the other two.

Clyde (Red) Witman, director of the clinic and ESSC wrestling coach, said more than 100 boys have enrolled for the program.

Later in the week, the staff will be served by Ed Perry, Pittsburgh coach and former three-time NCAA champ; Thad Turner, of Phillipsburg (N.J.) High School; Al Zarbatany of Wilson Boro; Russ Riegel of Hunterdon Central; Chris Poff, former ESSC grappler and now coach at Neshaunim, and Bill Layton of Ithaca, N. Y., an independent coach.

DETROIT (AP) — Ron Musson and the Seattle speedboat Miss Bardahl—so far ahead at the final heat that they could loaf a little—captured the prized Gold Cup classic in a thrill-a-second battle on the Detroit River Sunday.

Winning all three of her preliminary heats, Miss Bardahl had piled up so many points that she was content to take second place in the final six-boat, 15-mile dash. She could have finished third and still won the cup.

Musson's victory wrecked the hopes of four-time winner and defending champion Bill Muncey, who piloted the favorite Miss Thriftway, also of Seattle, in a bid for a fifth Gold Cup triumph.

Miss Thriftway, troubled in two of her heats by apparent mechanical faults, finished fifth.

Asked if the delay at confirmation or other Democratic moves in the senate to ban him from racing horses in Pennsylvania had anything to do with his offer to resign, Sheppard replied:

"Perhaps it did. Some of the (Senate) bills I didn't pay much attention to. Others I thought were insolent."

Asked if he now planned to stay on the commission, Sheppard said: "I have no plans for the future. My planning days are over. I just live from day to day."

Giants, Cards Divide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Stan Musial's two-run homer in the seventh inning sparked the St. Louis Cardinals as they ended an eight-game losing string with a 5-0 triumph over San Francisco in the second game of their doubleheader Sunday.

The Giants took the opener 4-3 in 15 innings when Ken Boyer's error at third base enabled Willie Williams, Douglas Polderski and Richard Kessler in the 50-yard dash and the standing broad jump. In the Boys Junior Group, Andy Counterman and Jan Gollins will run the 100; Al Zito the running broad and 100-yard dash and Anthony Curtola and George Eick will compete in the running broad.

In the boys intermediate division: David Rehgrig and Raymond Fehr are entered in the 110-yard dash and the running broad; Terry Ettinger in the 100 and the shot put; Ronald Pacifico in the 100 and broad jump; Tim Caracio in the broad and high jumps and Richard Williams in the shot.

Boys Senior Division: Carmo Communale in the 100, pole vault and 880 yard relay; Dick Pozzutto, in the 100, shot and 880 yard relay; Bill Yeager, in the 100, 440 and 880 yard relay; Larry Cortright in the 440, 880 and alternate in the relay; Dave Longcor in the 440, high jump and 880 yard relay; Randy Dietrich in the 440, 880 and alternate in the relay; John Heinsohn in the 880 and the mile run; Denny Strout in the shot and discus; Richard Jones, shot; Jim Constable in the high jump; Glen Grigg in the discus; Tom Frable in the discus; Fred LaBar in the pole vault and Bob Moyer in the 100 and alternate in the relay.

In the open division Bob Collura and George Collura will compete in the 100 and 440 yard dashes.

In the girls division of 13 and under Rosemary Hill, Lois Rehgrig and Carol Fehr will run the 50-yard dash; Becky Rehgrig the 50 and the standing broad jump and Mary Beth Heard, Connie Williams and Carol Hontz will compete in the standing broad jump.

Entered in the girls division of 15 years and under are: Sandy Smith, Debbie Hughes, and Linda Parry in the 75-yard dash and the standing broad jump.

Pirates Blast Mets

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates cut loose for five runs in the second inning and put a close game out of reach with a four-run burst in the seventh Sunday, dealing the New York Mets their 10th successive loss, 11-5.

Smoky Burgess opened the Pirates' second with a homer off loser Jay Hook and Bob Bailey homered with a man on in the same inning. Pittsburgh nicked left-hander Don Rower for two more runs in the fourth, then racked Roger Craig for four in the seventh, which was capped by Donn Clendenon's two-run homer.

Vern Law was the winning pitcher although he was chased in the sixth.

Phils Gain 3-2 Win Over Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies got a run in the top of the ninth on Ruben Amaro's triple and Cookie Rojas' pinch single, then held off a rally for a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday.

The Cubs loaded the bases with one out in the last of the ninth on three walks by Ryne Duren, but Dallas Green came on and stopped the threat cold by striking out pinch batter Ellis Burton and Merritt Ranew.

The Phillies pulled into a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning and were kept from busting it open then and there on some brilliant relief pitching by Lindy McDaniel, who nevertheless suffered his third loss against five victories.

Orioles Edge Twins

BALTIMORE (AP) — A wild throw by relief pitcher Lee Stange on a sacrifice bunt allowed Bob Saverine to score all the way from first base in the 10th inning Sunday and gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Stange replaced Jim Kaat, the third Minnesota pitcher, after Saverine walked to open the inning. Al Smith bunted Stange's first pitch along the first base line and the Twins' hurler threw the ball into foul territory past first base.

By the time right fielder Bob Allison retrieved the ball and threw to the plate, the fleet Saverine slid across with the winning run.

Senators Extend Hot Win Streak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington's hot Senators put together their longest winning streak in 14 years Sunday when they whacked the Los Angeles Angels in a doubleheader Sunday, 7-3 and 6-4.

The victories were the sixth and seventh in a row, the most consecutive victories for a Washington team since they won nine straight in 1949.

Don Zimmer's grand slam home run off Paul Foytack in the first inning of the second game climaxed a five-run inning for the Senators.

Zimmer batted in three runs in the first game for a total of seven for the day, but the big hits for the Senators in the opener were home runs by Jim King and Don Lock that overcame an early Angels' lead.

White Sox Top Boston In 12; 4-1

BOSTON (AP) — Mike Hershberger singled and Nellie Fox doubled for three runs off Boston ace Bill Monbouquette in the 12th inning Sunday, giving the Chicago White Sox a 4-1 victory over the Red Sox.

Singles by Al Weis and Pete Ward preceded the two-out line shot by Hershberger which broke the tie against Monbouquette, making his first relief appearance of the season.

Outitting Boston 15-4 and keeping the Red Sox tied in knots for eight innings, thanks to Hoyt Wilhelm's superb pitching, the White Sox felt apart defensively in the ninth.

A two-base error by third baseman Ward on Roman Mejias' grounder and Carl Yastrzemski's double which right fielder Hershberger misjudged cost Wilhelm the victory.

He Made Millions In Boxing's Golden Era

Doc Kearns, Manager Of Champions, Dies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jack (Doc) Kearns, who managed Jack Dempsey and other boxing champions, died Sunday at the home of his son, Jack Kearns Jr. He was 80 and had been in failing health for some time.

Kearns, a crafty master of ballyhoo in boxing's golden era, was in a Miami hospital in May, but was removed to his son's home for treatment.

His son reported Kearns fell about three weeks ago and broke his arm but did not return to the hospital.

At his bedside when he died were his sister, Helen McKernan, and his son, and Mrs. Jack Kearns Jr.

The body was taken to a Coral Gables funeral home. The funeral will be held Wednesday.

Kearns was a minor during the Alaska gold rush, bartender, saloon keeper, promoter, fight manager and ballyhoo artist supreme.

Only a handful of people knew McKernan. His friends just called him Doc.

"I've told so many lies in giving out stories that sometimes I don't know myself when the lies end and the truth begins," Kearns said several months ago in discussing his fantastic career.

Fight fans of the current era remember him for his managing of light heavyweight champions Joey Maxim and Archie Moore.

The fans of a generation before recall his exploits in the Golden Twenties and later when he managed the great Jack Dempsey, Mickey Walker, the Toy Bulldog, who held the world welterweight and middleweight titles, welterweight champion Jackie Fields and some lesser lights of the game.

The swift-talking Kearns, Dempsey and promoter Tex Rickard were responsible for boxing's first million-dollar gate. That was between Dempsey and Georges Carpentier, the French "Oedip Man," and drew a gross gate of $1,789,228 at Jersey City, N. J., July 2, 1921.

Made Millions

Kearns made millions with Dempsey and with Walker and blew it all in high - styled living. The Doc was one of the authentic big spenders and lavish tipsters.

Kearns and Dempsey split after the heavyweight champion married movie star Estelle Taylor. The two shared in another million dollar gate—the $1,188,603 drawn by the Dempsey-Luis Firpo thriller at New York Sept. 14, 1923—but shortly afterwards they parted.

Dempsey went on to three more million dollar-plus fights—the two with Gene Tunney ($1,895,733 and $2,638,660) and one with Jack Sharkey ($1,083,530). These were all Tex Rickard promotions.

Kearns and Rickard became acquainted during the gold rush in Alaska. Kearns, an aggressive teen - ager from Waterloo, Mich., hopped a scow at Seattle bound for Nome, Alaska. It was in Alaska that he met Rickard, and authors Jack London, Robert Service and Rex Beach.

Kearns and Dempsey came together in a saloon in Oakland, Calif., when Dempsey was a hobo fighter drifting from one town to another. Kearns said Dempsey came to his rescue in a brawl and the two cleaned up the saloon. They went on to divide millions.

Ko'd Willard

Dempsey won the heavyweight title by knocking out Jess Willard in the third round at Toledo, Ohio, July 4, 1919.

The "Sack of Shelby" occurred four years later when Kearns left town with $300,000 on a special train. Oil had been struck in the little town of Shelby, Mont., and its boosters decided to put Shelby on the map with a title fight between Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, Minn.

Kearns demanded and received his $300,000 guarantee. It was a dull fight that grossed just about $300,000 on July 4, 1923. Three Shelby banks folded after Kearns headed east on his train.

"Money didn't mean anything in those days (the Golden Twenties)," Walker said recently. "Making it was real easy. I was sure Kearns and I would never run out of the chips. The stuff just rolled in. Once I counted the face value of canceled checks in a trunk and it was over a million bucks. But I'd do the same thing again, I guess, I loved every minute of it."

Kearns and Walker went to London in 1927 for a middleweight title defense against Englishman Tommy Milligan. Stories of the high-living fighter and manager preceded them to London.

"We hit the night clubs as soon as we got there," recalled Walker. "The Doc and I had a great time. The stories were plastered all over the papers. But it wasn't as it seemed. I didn't drink a drop. It only seemed that way. I really trained hard and just faked the night stuff."

"The odds went up in Milligan's favor. The Doc bet every pound we were to get and a lot more we didn't have. Anyway I knocked out Milligan and I guess we won about a quarter of a million bucks. Then we really celebrated. I don't think London has been the same."

"I woke up on a plane the next day. When we landed we got in car. We were driving around when I saw the Eiffel Tower. I told the Doc, 'This isn't Ireland, it's Paris, you rat.' Doc said, 'We ain't been to Paris, either, so what's the difference.' He was right. What a town! We had a ball. And somehow we managed to blow all that dough."

Through the years the Doc made it and spent it. He split right down the middle with his fighters and usually deserved every bit of it. Like in the case of Joey Maxim.

Ballyhoo Artist

Kearns, even in the late stages of his career, had a vivid imagination and could cook up all kind of ballyhoo. He could look you straight in the face and tell whopping lies. His blue eyes would sparkle and there always would be a sly grin on his face. He knew he wasn't conning anyone but his stories were so fantastic that they usually got him and his fighter space in the papers.

New Treasury Issues

By William A. Doyle

Q. I am seeking some information on how to purchase U. S. Treasury notes or bonds at the time they are first issued by the government. I assume that I could pay $1,000 for a $1,000 note or bond at the time of issue. How do I, as an individual, go about this?

A. When the U. S. Treasury Department announces plans for a new note or bond issue, you can put in your subscription to buy some of that issue.

The Treasury sells new issues of notes and/or bonds a number of times each year. This is all part of the process of financing the huge national debt. Suppose we look at a recent issue.

On June 6 the Treasury announced plans to borrow $1.25 billion by offering for sale bonds of seven-year, two-month maturity, paying interest at the rate of four percent a year.

Anyone who wanted to buy these bonds had to put in his subscription on June 11. Subscriptions could be put in on that one day only.

As is often the case, there was great demand for that bond issue. More than $16 billion worth was subscribed for. The Treasury trimmed the subscriptions down by an "allotment" system and sold some $1.9 billion of the new bonds.

Individual subscriptions of $100,000 or less were "allotted in full." In other words, if you had subscribed for anywhere between $1,000 and $100,000 of those bonds, your order would have been filled.

In order to subscribe to one of these Treasury offerings, your subscription must be sent to either a Federal Reserve Bank or the office of the Treasurer of the United States.

The easy way for an individual to buy new Treasury notes or bonds is by having his local bank handle the subscription and the necessary details for him.

Tell your banker to notify you the next time the Treasury announces a note or bond offering. If the terms of the issue (interest rate and maturity period) appeal to you, instruct your bank to put in your subscription.

Q. Many people evidently have made family fortunes by buying Eastman Kodak common stock and holding through the years. Can you tell me just how cheaply this stock could have been purchased years ago?

A. I hope you will settle for 31 years ago. The record books show that, adjusted for stock splits and stock dividends, the present Eastman Kodak common stock sold at $2.25 a share in 1932.

Put another way, this means that if you had invested $225 in that stock at that time, the value of your investment would now be more than $100,000. And (most important) the dividend payments on that investment would have increased from $34 in 1932 to $230 last year.

Q. I can't find Burlington Mills listed in the stock market reports. What happened? Does it now have a new name?

A. The name was changed from Burlington Mills Corp. to Burlington Industries back in February, 1963. After all this time, that's hardly a "new" name.

Q. Several years ago I bought some shares of a mutual fund, the Aviation Electronics Electrical Equipment Shares, managed by Group Securities. That fund has been merged with another and is now named the Aerospace-Science Fund. Should I send in the certificate for my shares and get a new certificate with the new name?

A. You can, if you want to. But there is no necessity. The merger and the name change didn't change your ownership.

Trained Jaguar Belies Cats' Fear Of Water

CANADENSIS — Cats are notoriously afraid of water, but Jongo, a 225-pound jaguar, hasn't read the book.

Friday, the two-year-old female joined her owner-trainer, Edwin J. Ferrar, in the heated pool at Hillside Lodge for a short dip.

Ferrar has been training the big cat for more than a year in this trick because, "Clyde Beatty and other animal trainers said the jaguar was the most dangerous of cats and couldn't be trained."

Ferrar met the challenge and uses Jongo in the water in addition to stunts performed on dry land.

Another facet of the cat's training that is unique is that the cat lives in the Ferrar household in Mountainhome and on Long Island as a member of the family.

"She is only caged occasionally to prevent damage to furniture since she likes to sharpen her claws on the sofa," he said.

Leading Jongo somewhat reluctantly from a portable cage, Ferrar entered the pool and pulled her in behind him. She slid into the water and, entering the spirit of things, swam slowly behind Ferrar.

Swim Together
She hugged him playfully and rode piggy-back as they swam together in the pool. A short game of volley ball brought Jongo up to the edge, where she hung and posed for Ferrar who coaxed her into the best camera angle for pictures which were taken by lodge guests.

"It took three months to get her into deep water," Ferrar noted. "We started the routine a year ago in Rattlesnake Creek, a tributary of the Brodheads, which runs through my Mountainhome property."

"I started with getting her feet wet and gradually teaching her to go deeper as she learned to trust me," he said.

Ferrar underlined the fact that Jongo is the only performing jaguar that swims. She has appeared at the Kentucky State Sportsmen's Show, Connecticut State Fair, Freedomland and on all three major television networks.

"Cats hate water," Ferrar pointed out, "and are treacherous because of their fear. My daughter, Susan, 14, and son, Steven, 10, swim in the pool with us during practice, but the cat would go for anyone else in the water out of fear that a stranger might endanger her."

Care In Handling
Care in handling of the cat is much like that of a professional opera star. Jongo is fed seven pounds of raw meat a day. She is fed after shows since feeding before, Ferrar said, would make the cat so placid she'd go to sleep and there wouldn't be any act.

Jongo rides in style, too. The rear of a specially built station wagon is reinforced with steel cages built into it. Special safety glass has been installed, also. To insure proper comfort and to keep the cat in a good mood, the station wagon is air conditioned.

Motorists can be sure their eyes haven't been playing them tricks on seeing the big cat in the black station wagon, since the words "wild cargo" are painted on it in huge letters.

Ferrar has a lion and a tiger which he has trained but he said, "They don't share Jongo's enjoyment of a little dip."

Sailors Score Soviet Trawlers

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — Five U.S. Navy ships and seven Soviet fishing trawlers were berthed at adjacent piers in the Nova Scotian port of Halifax over the weekend. The American sailors complained.

Officers aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier Intrepid said they were "practically surrounded" by Soviet fishing vessels. The trawlers arrived in Halifax Friday, the same day as the U.S. vessels, to take on water and provisions. The U.S. ships, including the destroyers Berry and Roan, are on an antisubmarine training cruise.

CAT IN A COOL CONCRETE POOL—Jongo, a 225-pound Jaguar, owned and trained by Edwin J. Ferrar of Mountainhome, looks contented as Ferrar paddles her about the Hillside Lodge pool. She is one of the few of her breed that has been trained to take to water. Needless to say, when Jongo goes for a morning dip, it's "everybody out of the pool."

Pike County Lists 17 Industries Employing 130

HARRISBURG — Industrial statistics released today by the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs showed Pike County to have had 17 manufacturing establishments which employed an average of 130 persons in the calendar year 1962.

Secretary of Internal Affairs, Genevieve Blatt, said the report on Pike County was one of a series of County Industry Reports compiled by the Department's Bureau of Statistics. These reports provide industrial statistics, by product classification, on number of establishments, number of employees, wages and salaries, capital expenditures, value of production and related activities, and value added by manufacture for each of Pennsylvania's 67 counties. In addition, data are reported for each political subdivision within the county, except that dollar data are not reported for fewer than three establishments to avoid disclosure of individual establishment financial data.

Copies of the reports for individual counties may be obtained without charge upon written request to the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs, Bureau of Statistics, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Reports for the various counties will be mailed as completed.

The complete statistical summary for Pike County follows:

Major industries: Based on employment, the grease and tallow and the apparel, n.e.c. industries were the leading industries in 1962 for Pike County.

Number of employees: The average number of employees in all manufacturing establishments in the county was 130. Twenty-one per cent of average employment was engaged in the grease and tallow industry while another 17 per cent was employed in the apparel, n.e.c. industry.

Wages and salaries: Total wages and salaries in 1962 amounted to $416,000.

Value of production and related activities: The county's 17 manufacturing establishments produced $1,460,000 in 1962. The 5 sawmill and planing mill products establishments accounted for 11 per cent of total value of production.

Value added by manufacture, which is computed by subtracting the costs of material, fuel, contract work, and electrical energy from the value of production, was $800,000.

Capital expenditures for the year totaled $37,000.

Allentown Hospital Carnival Planned

ALLENTOWN — The eagerly looked-forward-to annual carnival for the patients at the Allentown State Hospital, will be held on Tuesday, July 9 from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The grounds will be gaily decorated to carry out the theme of the year,—"Carnival of Flowers", and the booths with their games and prizes will again be the focus of activities. There will be a band and a skit, in which both doctors and nurses will participate.

Dr. Howard T. Fiedler, the Superintendent of the hospital, will greet patients and volunteers.

At 4:30 a box supper will be held on the grounds. Over 200 volunteers from many sponsoring organizations in the area will be active in making the day a very memorable one for the patients.

Once again the Monroe County Health Association will have the nail hammering booth at which the patients both young and old will try their skill at hitting the nail on the head; all however, will receive prizes, consisting of cosmetics, toilet articles, miscellaneous items for both men and women.

82 'Older' Workers Are Placed

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG, July 8 — Employment records of the State Department of Labor and Industry show that 82 Stroudsburg area "older workers" (45 and over) were placed in jobs during May by the State Employment Office in Stroudsburg.

Compared to previous years, May placements represented a decline of 11 from May 1962 and 20 over the same month in 1961. Of the latest 48 persons placed, nine were in the "65 and over" classification. All placements, said the department, were in nonagricultural fields.

The Stroudsburg employment office noted that 83 new applications were filed with the office during May. Eleven of these applications were filed by persons 65 and over. Initial counseling was provided for one area resident during the month.

Changes were made in several exhibit classes. The schedule for 1963 has the registered ram show and exchange combined with classes for rams — A, aged, B, yearling, C, lamb. All entries brought for exchange or sale must go through the show ring and all entries must be for sale or exchange.

There will be an open market lamb class. There will also be a junior market lamb class for boys and girls 10 to 20 years of age. Ewes may be brought to the field for display only. No entry may be sold or exchanged privately.

A junior lamb grading contest open to boys and girls and adults will be a new feature. Prizes are offered for youth only.

Food will be available on the grounds.

Curvill Shaffner of Penn. State University will be the judge and all placings in the sheep classes will be on the Danish system of blue, red and white groups — rather than 1, 2, 3, etc. Premiums will be offered for the champion in each breed — Cheviot, Columbia, Suffolk, Hampshire, Dorset, Cormedale, Shropshire and Southdown.

Exhibitors are to bring their own hurdles for each class.

Health Rules of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, will be observed.

Consult your county agent for details.
